HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Consideration was resumed in the morning hour of repeal and amendment of laws relating to the transfer of cases from the state to federal courts. Mr. Frye argued against Townsend of Ill., who has charge of the bill whether in view of the importance of the measure and lack of attention given it he would not consent to have it referred to the judiciary committee or recommitted to the committee on the revision of laws not to be brought back at this session.

Mr. Townsend declined to accede to the suggestion and intimates there was no lack of interest or attention on the part of the house. He insisted on his demand for the previous question. The republican side of the house thereupon refrained from voting so there should not be a quorum and then calls of the house was begun.

Dilatory motions consumed the morning hour and the bill went over, which called forth the remark from Mr. Townsend that the republicans by their filibustering were obstructing the appropriation bills and other public legislation.

The legislative appropriation bill was received from the senate and referred to the committee on appropriations.

Mr. Cox introduced a bill for an international exhibition of arts, manufactures and products in New York City. The silver bill was then taken up; the question being on the fourth section as amended yesterday on motion of Mr. Morrill. The amendment is as follows: The charge for converting gold and silver bullion into coin shall be the difference between the market value in New York of the bullion and the legal tender value of the coin. The section as amended was adopted, yeas 113, nays 109.

A motion was then taken on a motion to reconsider and lay on the table. The motion to lay on the table adopting the fourth section of the silver bill as amended, was carried, yeas 110, nays 109. This vote keeps the fourth section in the bill, thus defeating one of the main objects of its opponents. At the last moment Mr. Springer, who had sustained the Marsh amendment at all stages, changed his vote from aye to no, which left it in the speaker's power to defeat the motion by making a tie vote, but he did not exercise his constitutional privilege.

The 5th section, which directs the payment of small silver coins to the extent that they may be required in exchange for gold coin or for standard silver dollars or, for United States notes at par in sums not less than $50 was agreed to.

Mr. Warner demanded the previous question on the 6th section, which makes gold coins and standard silver dollars legal tender in all payments. Mr. Weaver moved to amend the 6th section by adding a clause directing the secretary of the treasury to cause to be paid out without discrimination the standard silver coin belonging to the government that may be in the treasury the same as gold coin in liquidation of all kinds of obligations against the government. Agreed to.

The 7th section, providing that silver coins of denominations smaller than one dollar shall be legal tender for any amount not exceeding $20 in one payment. Agreed to.

The 8th section was then read. It requires the secretary of the treasury to receive deposits of gold or silver coin and bullion in sums not less than $20, and issue certificates therefor in denominations not less than $20; and it provides that certificates representing coin in the treasury may be issued in payment of interest on the public debt; and that certificates for coin and bullion in the treasury shall be received at par in payment for all dues to the United States including duties on imports.

Mr. Garfield made a point of order that the section looking to the payment of interest on the public debt in certificates was in violation of the constitution, which provided that the validity of the public debt shall not be questioned and was not in order.

The speaker overruled the point, stating that it was not the duty of the chair to rule on the construction of a law; that was a question for the consideration of the house itself.

Mr. Warner moved the previous question on the 8th section, refusing to assent to the proposition of Mr. Garfield that in view of the importance of the section debate should be permitted. The republicans thereupon resorted to their usual policy under the circumstances, of declining to vote, and so there was no quorum.

Mr. Mills appealed to Mr. Warner to yield his opposition and allow a fair time for discussion, telling him that there was no use in trying to drive the minority. Mr. Cox suggested that he would find a way to compel a minority vote and that he would offer an amendment to the rules for that purpose. He intimated, amid derisive laughter on the republican side, that his plan was to deduct a day's pay from members not voting. Several motions to adjourn were voted down, but finally Mr. Warner himself amid laughter on the republican side made a motion to adjourn, which was agreed to.

A special from Vinita, I. T., says two companies of United States troops under Major J. A. Wilcox, fourth cavalry, are quartered there to prevent squatters entering the territory.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Government Beaten in a Law Suit.

PARSONS, N. Y., May 21.—The suit of Benj. Hutton, formerly of the firm of Bonthron & Hutton to recover the duties paid Collector Schell under protest resulted in a verdict for plaintiff for $1,492. The said verdict will cause similar suits to be commenced against the government involving several thousand dollars.

A Heavy Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—Eugene Jaccard & Co's jewelry store, corner of Olive and Fifth streets, was entered last night through the skylight over the ground floor. It was robbed of about $3,000 worth of jewelry, consisting of thirty-two hunting cases and a large lot of rolled gold jewelry of different kinds. There is no clue to the robber.

Prohibition Convention in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21.—The prohibition temperance league met in convention at Masonic Hall this morning. Under the call to nominate a state ticket quite a number were opposed to such nomination, and failing to control the organization of the convention withdrew to the rear of the hall indulging in such noisy demonstrations as to call for the presence of the police, when they retired to the ante room and agreed to meet in a separate convention this afternoon. The regulars then proceeded to select a nominating committee, it being found that eighteen counties were represented. The time thence until recess was occupied in speech making.

Committee on Naval Academy.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The following have been appointed board of visitors to the annual examinations of the conditions of the naval academy in June next: Designated by the president, Commodore Thos. H. Stephens, U. S. Chief Engineer J. W. King, U. S. N.; Rev. E. Benson Bushnell, Fremont, O.; Gen. James L. Wilson, N. Y.; Gen. E. H. Murray, Louisville, Ky.; Col. Wm. Goddard, Providence, R. I.; Capt. John M. Brook, Lexington, Va.; appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, Chalmer Freeman, M. I. Durham, Robert M. Knapp; appointed by the president, protem, of the senate, H. B. Anthony and T. R. McMurtrie.

Judge Dillon's Resignation.

DES MOINES, May 21.—Judge Dillon, who is here holding court, on being interviewed by a Register reporter tonight in regard to a Washington dispatch which stated that he had informed the president of his determination to resign and that it was decided that Secretary McCrary should be his successor, stated that it was erroneous and that he never had any conversation with the president or Secretary McCrary on the subject.

Iowa Democratic Convention.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA., May 21.—The democratic state convention assembled this morning. Nearly all the counties in the state were represented with large delegations. A temporary organization was affected by choosing Jas. Hagenman of Keokuk, President. Upon taking the chair he returned thanks for the honor and endorsed the attitude of the democratic party in congress. He denounced President Hayes and declared the democratic party will not only elect the next president but will inaugurate him. The committee on resolutions and credentials were appointed and a recess taken.

Upon reassembling General A. C. Dodge was made chairman. On taking the chair he denounced the republican party for forcing resumption and advocated the union of all elements opposed to the republican party. H. H. Trimble was nominated governor by acclamation, and Moses Bloom lieut. governor.

M. K. & T. R. R.

PARSONS, KAN., May 21.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the M., K. & T. railway held in Parsons on the 21st the following gentlemen were elected directors of the road for the ensuing year: W. L. McCready, J. T. Agnew, of New York; Geo. C. Clark, of New York; D. Oakes Clark and J. Malcom Forbes of Mass; Geo. C. Crocker and Geo. P. Lyman, of Boston; Moses Williams, Jr. of Brooklyn; Lucius Sargent and H. P. McDonald, of Fort Scott; H. C. Cross, of Emporia; C. H. Pratt, of Humboldt; Edmund D. Barbour, of Mass.

Heavy Strike.

CHICAGO, May 21.—A strike occurred this afternoon at Joseph H. Brown's iron works, South Chicago, which throws about 600 men out of employment. Originally fourteen men in the butt department struck against a reduction of eight per cent, their wages being from $1.50 to $3.00 per day. This caused a stoppage of all the plate men; and as the other departments depend on the plate department, the whole number will be out for the present at least.

Can Not Accept.

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—Notwithstanding Secretary Sherman on his recent visit to Ohio so frequently stated that he was not a candidate for governor, it has lately been declared that if a nomination were tendered him he would accept. The following letter has just been received from Secretary Sherman:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15, '79.

MY DEAR SIR:—In view of the interest manifested by friends during my visit that I should be nominated as the republican candidate for governor of Ohio, I have given the subject careful consideration and come to the conclusion that I cannot accept such nomination. I am now engaged in duties which can clearly be better completed by myself than a new man coming into the office. To accept the nomination for governor I would consider as an abandonment of a trust important to the whole country to promote my personal advancement. I earnestly hope therefore that the convention will not embarrass me by the tender of a nomination which I must decline if tendered. If may be no such purpose will be manifested but I write you so that if the convention should so incline you may at once state why I cannot accept.

Very truly yours,
JOHN SHERMAN.

A Narrow Escape.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—Wm. Allen, alias Story, of St. Louis, who eloped with Jennie Atlee, the wife of a farmer at Batavia, Ohio, a few days since, was captured in this city and placed in jail at Batavia. At an early hour this morning a mob entered the jail, seized him, placed a rope around his neck and hung him to the timbers of the bridge over the Miami River. After hanging a few moments the rope broke and Story dropped into the water. He succeeded in gaining the shore, when he was taken to the hotel where now he lies in bed in a bruised condition.

FOREIGN.

Betting on the Derby.

LONDON, May 21.—Betting betting is now 200 to 1 against Uncas. Vice Chief is the present favorite at 11 to 2. There is 6 to 1 against Cologan and Falmouth, and 7 to 1 against Charibert.

French News.

PARIS, May 21.—The radical members of the chamber of deputies will on Saturday propose the following order of the day: The chamber regretting that the government in the distribution of the pardons has not made application of more policy in the execution of the amnesty law and hoping that in the future the government will so apply as to avoid the electoral conflicts and give the country pacification.

The reception of Henry Martin by the French academy has been definitely postponed.

Emil Oliver is to make a speech from his defence of the Napoleonic regime and ministry of 1870.

Church Agitation.

LONDON, May 21.—The Catholic newspapers of Ireland maintain profound silence respecting the bill in parliament for the establishment of the University of St. Patrick and Dublin. The Protestants of Ireland are unfavorable to the measure. They say they must be certain of its acceptance by Rome before it can do any good. Protestant dissenters and the Church Liberation Society of England bitterly oppose the measure, and are organizing a public agitation against it.

The Afghan Treaty.

SIMLA, May 21.—Among the stipulations of the treaty between India and Afghanistan, is one that the British will hold Surdi, Kashtal, and Khyber Passes and the Pashawur valley beyond Uveta, and will restore Candahar and Jellabad, and ultimately Pakak.

In Training.

NEW CASTLE ON TYNE, May 21.—Hanlan was afloat twice yesterday. In the morning he rowed at a speed of 30 strokes per minute and in the afternoon he increased this rate to 33 and 34. He turned on both occasions when he had traversed about half the course. Elliott made long strokes averaging 36 to a minute in the morning and 34 in the afternoon. In the latter he used a long stroke and sculls 6¾ inches broad for the first time.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The subscriptions to the 4 per cent. refunding certificates since yesterday were $1,187,370.

A despatch to the commissioner of Indian affairs from the Sac and Fox agency, gives the information that the settlers who had squatted in the western agency are leaving with great rapidity in front of three squadrons of cavalry.

It is stated that Secretary McCrary has decided to accept the position of United States Circuit Judge for the eighth district, to be vacant by the resignation of Judge Dillon, but will not leave the cabinet before the first of September next.

The secretary of the treasury yesterday accepted bids for 50,000 ounces of silver for the New Orleans mint, and 300,000 ounces for the mint of San Francisco. Owing to an advance on the London market, due probably to the reported action of the German government in relation to the sale of bullion, higher prices were paid by the treasury for yesterday's purchases.

There is good authority for stating that the President will veto the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill as passed by the Senate, and if it reaches him Friday or Saturday the message will be sent to the house of representatives on Monday next. It is expected the message will be brief, and it will hold that the supervision in the character of supervisors and deputy marshals is necessary to ensure free elections.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The fishing schooner Ida E. Baker, of Gloucester, Mass., was lost with a crew of twelve men.

The round house of New London, Conn., and Northern R. R. and four engineers were burned this morning. The loss was covered by $34,000 insurance.

President C. B. Wright, of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, has announced his intention of resigning his position, that he may be able to gain his health and strength to undergo a surgical operation for a cataract. He will retain his seat in the directory.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Saturday being the queen's birthday, the London stock exchange will be closed.

Owing to advices from the south of France and Italy, reporting the rapid destruction of silk worms by the weather, the silk market yesterday was excited, and prices were very buoyant.

A cablegram received in Detroit yesterday from the Henley stewards announces that the Showacaemeites of Monroe on account of having been mechanics or artisans will be barred from entering the lists at the forthcoming Henley regatta.

The committee on technical questions appointed by the Darien Canal Congress in Paris, have abandoned all projects except that for a canal via Nicaragua with locks, and that for a canal to connect Limon Bay with the port of Panama. In its report to be presented Friday, the committee will invite the congress to decide finally between these two routes.

JOB WORK.

Facilities for Plain and Fancy Job Printing equal to those of any house west of the Mississippi river.

Senator Matt Carpenter was once a chore boy for Governor Dillingham of Vermont.

The democrats make a high mistake in thinking that President Hayes has helped them in the north. The north does not feel that the army is a menace to our liberties, or that there is any necessity for the legislation proposed by the democracy.

It is now proposed to have the regular sessions of the legislature of Illinois occupied solely with the consideration and passage of appropriation bills and have sessions for general legislation once in six years. This would be a good rule for the national congress also.

Secretary McCulloch holds that resumption cannot be positively assured until the legal tender quality of the greenback is abolished. This is common sense and it is to be hoped that the case about to come before the U. S. supreme court in which the question of the constitutionality of the legal tender quality of the greenback will be tested, will definitely and eternally settle the question.

The Bland bill passed the house in November, 1877. It contained a free coinage provision and passed by the decisive vote of 163 to 34. On Tuesday a motion was made to strike out the free coinage provision in the Warner silver bill. When the roll call was finished the vote stood 96 for and 98 against. Finally by energetic drumming the vote stood 103 for the amendment to 118 against. This shows that congress is beginning to entertain more sensible views on the silver question.

When listening to the insane ravings and dreadful predictions of greenbackers like Kelly and Ewing it is well to see how their predictions regarding the resumption of specie payments have been fulfilled. In a carefully prepared article in the North American Review for November, 1877, Mr. Ewing after showing that resumption was impossible used this strong language, "It ought not to be, and cannot be, executed. If permitted to stand, it will bring on a general destruction of business, and more dire and widespread woe than the great rebellion itself inflicted; and it will at last go down in a tempest which will shake our social fabric from turret to foundation-stone."

Senator Gordon says the southern members were opposed to the attachment of riders to the appropriation bills, and regarding the future policy of the party, says: "I think there is wisdom enough in the party to prevent any disaster to the public service. One thing is certain, there is conservatism enough among southern representatives to relieve the government in some way when the time comes." The way the southern members acted during the electoral count would seem to justify confidence in the above statement, though we confess we would rather see less praise of Jeff Davis and less opposition to Union war legislation on the part of southern members.

We have had frequent occasions to refer to the smallness of the earnings of the D. & R. G. road to what they should be. It is well-known that the large increase in the earnings of the A., T. & S. F. road has been due to the increase in Colorado business. Of course the increase should have equally affected the earnings of the D. & R. G. road. Under these circumstances the following comparative table of earnings for April is interesting:

	1877	1879	Increase
A. T. & S. F.	$119,892.00	$409,000.00	$180,108.00
D. & R. G.	80,926.94	97,076.83	16,149.89

Or in other words the increase of business of the Atchison road for the month of April 1879 over 1878 amounts to 86 per cent. and on the D. & R. G. road to 20 per cent. It is unnecessary to make any comment on the above comparison.

Mr Joseph Medill telegraphed the Chicago Tribune the following reasons for the approval of the new California constitution, which are good as showing that the Kearneys are not all-powerful after all: "It is a great mistake to suppose that Kearney and his hoodlum sand-lotters carried the new constitution, although they all voted for it under the idea that it would confiscate or extirpate capital. It was the farmers who carried it. They cast more than two-thirds of the votes it received. What moved the farmers to support it en masse was, first, the provision taxing unimproved lands as highly per acre as improved lands of similar fertility and situation, the object being to compel the land monopolists and holders of the vast Spanish grants to break them up into small parcels and offer them for sale to poor men and small capitalists for actual cultivation. It is intended, by the weight of taxation, to force the monopolists to sell out. Fifty thousand farmers own only six million acres, while five thousand ranchmen hold nine million acres, which, being unimproved, almost escapes taxation. Second, the sections that provide for the election of three state commissioners, armed with full power to fix and determine the rates of freight and fare that may hereafter be charged by the Central Railroad Company, or other roads, if there be any in California."

The New York papers are strangely silent about that immense Denver & Rio Grande extension subscription. Tribune, May 20.

The subscriptions closed on Saturday last and no mention of the fact could have appeared earlier than Sunday, hence, as it takes four days for a New York paper to reach Denver, it is no wonder that the Tribune should not have seen any on Monday when the above paragraph was penned.

Still if the Tribune has New York exchanges it could have seen that the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, largely on account of the United States Supreme Court decision, is attracting considerable attention in the leading New York dailies. On Friday morning the New York Times contained the following news item: "The Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company invited subscriptions in this city on Wednesday for $5,000,000 first consolidated mortgage 7 per cent. 30-year gold bonds, to be a first lien on, and the proceeds to be used in constructing, 565 miles of new road, as follows: From Canon City to Leadville and Ten Mile, through the Grand Canon of the Arkansas, 150 miles; from Alamosa westward to the San Juan mines, 210 miles; and from Alamosa eastward to Albuquerque, New Mexico, 205 miles. Subscribers were offered the bonds at 90, with a bonus of five shares of stock thrown in, payments to be made in installments. The entire amount was subscribed in two hours." On the same day the New York Times contained a column leader suggested by the success mentioned in the above extract, and which speaks in high terms of the railroad and its prospects. As a mere suggestion to our esteemed contemporary we might add that it is well as a general rule to glance at the New York papers before declaiming what is and what is not in them.

Effect of too Much Mince Pie.

"We may see the purse and the sword in the hands of R. B. Hayes. We may see erected upon the crumbling ruins of a once glorious republic an infernal despotism, and millions of freemen transformed into cringing slaves. We may see all of these things, but before the work is accomplished we shall see some other thing vastly more in accord with the principles upon which the fathers built the republic, laid its corner-stones and reared its pillows, (sic) one by one, until the majesty of the superstructure challenged the admiration of the world. We shall see popular convulsions, compared with which history furnishes no parallel. We shall see freemen once more kneeling at their altars, pledging lives, fortunes and sacred honors, making sacrifices that will win the approval of heaven and good men upon earth. The purse and the sword must not be united to crush out American liberty, and it is the sublime mission of the democratic party to insist upon their irrevocable divorce."
Indianapolis Sentinel.

The International Review.

The International Review for June will be published in a few days. It opens with a very interesting account of the present condition of Greece, by Thomas Davidson, the well-known Greek scholar who passed the winter of 1877-78 in that country. The second article is a careful discussion of the Indian question, by Hon. J. D. Cox, of Ohio. It is hardly necessary to say that Mr. Cox's experience as secretary of the Interior gives peculiar value and importance to his carefully considered paper. Mr. Brooks Adams contributes an article on the currency question in relation to the supreme court. This question is attracting great attention, owing to the case about to be tried between Gen. Butler and Mr. Chittenden as to the constitutionality of reissues. Mr. Adams traces the history of the legal-tender case, and states clearly the action of Judge Hoar in obtaining the reversal of Hepburn vs. Griswold. The fourth article, upon Shakespearean revival in London, gives a very interesting description of Mr. Irving and Miss Terry, and is written by Mr. Julian Sturgis, of London, well-known by his stories in Blackwood, and by one or two successful novels. Rev. George Washburn, president of Robert College, Constantinople, gives a careful and able article upon the relation of England and Turkey. Mr. Washburn writes with all the advantage of being an eye-witness as well as a master of his subject. The next and last article is entitled "Some Remedies for Socialism," and is from the pen of Mr. E. L. Godkin. Mr. Godkin takes a hopeful view of the subject, though he by no means overlooks the dangers. The article is characterized by the strong sense and vigorous style so widely familiar in the columns of the Nation. There are also two poems by Mr. F. W. Bourdillon, whose verses have attracted so much notice in the London "Spectator," and whose charming lines beginning "The night has a thousand eyes," were republished and read everywhere. There are the usual full and careful notices of important books. Altogether this number is interesting, timely, strong and striking, and will be widely read and command attention. Enclose fifty cents to Messrs. A. S. Barnes & Co., N. Y., for this number; or, $5.00, with request to mail the International Review regularly to your address for one year. The Review is for sale by prominent newsdealers and booksellers everywhere. If not found on his counter request your dealer to get it.

THURSDAY, MAY [illegible]

For Forty Years.

For forty years
Mingled hopes and fears,
Tales of battle, told with bated breath,
Of peace, returning [illegible] gave wreath,
Of joy [illegible] and of death;

For sins will sink and twilights melt away,
Glad evenings hurry on, nor midnight stay,
But at the summons of the morn e'en night grows gray,
Stars fade from sight, and lo! the light! the day!

Such change from day to night,
From dark to light,
I'll up the record of my forty years.

For forty years
You boys look forward on another page;
The hall is dressed, the candles are not lit,
The page is white, the annals are not writ,
The stage is set, the curtains pulled away,
The actors dressed and ready for the play,
And I the chorus stand;

To say if it be Farce or Tragedy!
What shall the dance or dance, or what the page
That heaves the history of the stormy age,
For forty years?

Not mine! For forty years
The stage is all your own; the page is yours,
Of storm, of peace,
Of work, or ease,
Of winter tempests, or of summer flowers,
Not mine to tell;
What hand shall work for woe, or what work well.

Only this oracle for gathering strife,
Only this lesson from a happy life.

Who lives and works for Love,
The miracle shall prove:
The Eternal Power is by, whatever he do,
Weakness is strength for him, and old things are made new.
As he mounts higher on the ever [illegible]
His group in [illegible] fast more quick to climb.
Faster the race! run,
As one by one,
Our selfish handicaps are see-ing,
Love works the miracle of youth,
Love speaks the oracle of truth,
Any they who prove
The strength of Love
Grow younger and more young
For forty years!
Aye, as we live, Life's song is better sung,
Aye, as we live, Life's lyre more tuneful strung,
The blind receive their sight, the dumb their tongue,
Aye, as he grows, God's child becomes more young.

—Edward Everett Hale of The Alpha Delta Phi Convention.

Stories of Brute Intelligence.

A writer in Nature says: "In my family we had a tabby cat who, when turned out, would let herself in at another door by climbing up some list nailed round it, then pressing up the click-latch, pushing the door with herself hanging on it, away from the post, so as to prevent the latch falling back into its place, and then dropping down walked back to the fire. I knew a Skye terrier who, being told to carry a fishing-rod carefully experimented along its length, to find the center of gravity. In carrying it he came to a narrow path through a wood. There dropping the rod he took it by the end, and dragged it under him lengthwise till the open road was gained, when he took the rod by the center of gravity again and went on. This could not be a copy of human actions, but the result of orignal reasoning." Another writer gives the following on the authority of the late Mr. Dawes, the astronomer. Being busy in his garden and having a large bunch of keys in his hand he gave it to a retriever to hold for him till he was at liberty. Going into the house soon after he forgot to reclaim the keys. The remembrance of what he had done with them only returned to him when he required them in the evening. He then recalled that he had given them to the dog, and forgotten to take them again. Calling the animal, and looking impressively in his face, he said, "My keys, fetch me my keys." The dog looked wistful and puzzled for a moment and then bounded off to the garden, his master following. He went straight to the root of an apple-tree, scratched up the keys and brought them. May we not fairly put into words the dog's train of reasoning thus: "My master has given me these keys to hold; he has forgotten them; I cannot carry them all day; But I must put them where I can find them again?" A writer like dog named Uglymug had a poodle for a companion. Whenever Uglymug saw signs of a family meal, he inveigled the poodle into a labyrinthine shrubbery, under pretense of seeking for rats, and when the latter was fairly intent on its game, Uglymug would sneak back to enjoy by himself what he could get from the family table.

Good Points of the Prince of Wales.

A writer in London Truth, discussing the character of the Prince of Wales, says: "Few men have been more unscrupulously libelled than he. On one occasion he was much pained by a cartoon in a comic paper which likened him to George IV. 'I hope I'm not quite so bad as that,' rather naively observed his royal highness, throwing over his illustrious great uncle without any ceremony at all. When one subject of scandal began to pall on the public taste another was tried, and we were told that the prince was head-over-ears in debt. As a matter of fact, the prince has always known perfectly well what he was about. He is very generous, giving away far more than the public is aware of, and is a model landlord. Apropos, here is a story in which the prince comes out well, and another person, who may be called B—, very badly. The prince won a bet from B, who thereupon begged for time to pay his royal highness. Of course the prince consented, and I do B justice, he paid. But some months after B won a bet of the prince. The sum was a trifling one, and the prince, being rather suddenly called away to attend a state ceremony, the thing escaped his mind for a moment. He was away from Marlborough House two days, and on his return found a dunning letter from B, who received his money by return of post; and I dare say the prince has forgiven him. I may add that he is a faithful correspondent, and can write both with humor and feeling. His opinions of contemporaries are certainly expressed in some of his letters with avivacity that will make them excellent reading for our grandchildren. They would be dangerous to our own generation."

Accomplishments of Western Mules.

Two [illegible] were seated on a boulder, alongside the Boulder stage, one the Virginia City chronicle, discussing the kicking powers of the mules. One has just returned from Sun Sulp and the other was on the way there, and having met near the rock they sat down for a talk.

"Have you quit over there?" said the one who was eastward bound.

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Mules."

"Kind of em?"

"You bet. I saw one yesterday alongside an old boiler kickin' out the rivet heads one by one. Never missed one. I was just going on shift, and when I saw the mule and heard there was more of 'em inside, I threw up my job. I've got a wife and three children depending on me, and I don't take no chances."

"The worst mule I ever saw," said the other, "was in Pioche some years ago. It was one I owned. One day it rubbed against some nails sticking out of a post, and it turned round and drove those nails one by one, using a single blow of the hoof, with the iron shoe on, for each nail. It never missed its kick; and always drove 'em just in to the head. Then it saw a few tacks on the post a little lower down, which were only half driven in, and it drove them in, too, with light taps of the hoof, just as gentle and as easy as could be. One day a man came along and set out a can of nitro-glycerine and giant powder. He wanted to get the mule to kick it and get killed. I saw him about the corral with the can, and knew what was in. At first I was going to stop him, but then I thought if my mule was any kind of a mule at all he could take care of himself, so I just watched. Well, the mule saw the can, and, walking up, sniff't of it, and then squared himself for the kick. The man was sneaking off, and just as the mule was going to kick the can he caught sight of the fellow and changed his position so that his tail was toward the man. He let fly his right hoof. The can went flying through the air and hit the man square between the shoulders just as he was getting over a fence about a hundred feet away. The thing exploded, and I never saw the man again, but next morning Pat Holland came out in the Record and said that the town had been visited by a shower of blood."

A Quick-Witted Boy.

During the railroad riots in Titusburg in the summer of 1877, says the Boston Transcript, it became necessary to beat a hasty retreat from the general office of the Pan Handle Railway Company, and the premises were evacuated in double quick time. In the confusion a regulator clock, used by the superintendent, was accidentally left behind in the lower hall, forgotten when the last hand left the building, which at that time was surrounded by the mob. A youth still in his teens, a messenger in the freight department, lingering in the doomed building, recognized it and was about to take it, but a burly rioter saw it at the same time and seized it. It was as much as one's life was worth to expostulate with the plunderer, but the boy pluckily laid hold of the timepiece and claimed it as his property. The plug ugly shook him off. Nothing daunted, the boy tried another tack. "See here," he said, "that clock won't do you no good. It's made to keep Columbus time." "Thunder," answered the man, "is that so? Then I don't want no part of it. Get out with it." The boy started, ran the gauntlet of a volley of revolver shots and a shower of paving stones, and reached his friends in safety with the rescued clock, which is now doing good service again.

REV. JOSEPH ADAMS, MRS. J. A. D. ADAMS, Homœopathic Physician, and MR. G. K. HARTENSTEIN, Attorney at Law, Leadville.

The Springs are situated at the mouth of Cottonwood Cañon, in a most beautiful country, salubrious atmosphere, surrounded by scenery of the most gorgeous description, being in the very heart of the Saguache range Mount Yale lying to the north, and Mount Princeton to the south. The crystal waters of the Cottonwood River, abundant with trout, come flashing and sparkling down past the door of the Sanitarium from its fountain head, the eternal beds of snow which cap the hoary old mountain.

The following analysis, connected with six years' experience, warrant us in saying that they are a specific for catarrh, sore eyes, rheumatism, lead poisons, and all scrofulous affections:

There was some reckless riding on the part of several enthusiastic young gentlemen yesterday, and one of the party paid Judge Stewart $6 for the privilege of saying adieu to that magistrate.

We desire to call attention to Mr. W. Brockway's new advertisement, which will be found in another column. Mr. Brockway has some of the handsomest hair goods we ever saw. A call at Miss Vance's store, where the goods are exhibited, will satisfy anyone of this fact.

The Mentor, of Monument, has issued a circular to the farmers of the Divide asking a series of questions with the intention of obtaining data for an article on the condition of farming operations in that section of the county. This is a bit of enterprise, on the part of the editor of the Mentor, entirely characteristic. We are glad to notice this effort of the Mentor, which is a most valuable paper to its readers.

In a Peck of Trouble.

When a man ties his horse from the stable he naturally infers that someone has stolen it, but when he fastens his horse to a small stone in the road and then finds him missing, he is led to suppose that the horse had strayed away. Neither of these happened to Mr. O. H. Peck. Yesterday morning Mr. Peck fastened his horse with a long rope to a stone in the road, and not long after our city police found this same horse practicing the lynch law on a tree near by, winding his rope around the tree while trying to nibble the leaves from the top branch. The policeman rescued the animal, saved the life of the tree and returned the nag safely to Mr. Peck. We do not care to point the moral to adorn this tale as it is plain enough to a man up a tree.

The Medical Society Second Day.

The Medical Association met yesterday pursuant to adjournment, and before 7 o'clock last evening had transacted a large amount of business. Many very interesting papers were read and elicited valuable suggestions in the discussions which followed.

Doctor Beshoar submitted from the committee on practice a report upon the Proper Feeding of Babes. A vote of thanks was given the president for his address and the paper was referred to the committee on printing.

Doctor Bancroft then made a report on Hygiene, which was received with applause and referred to the publishing committee. Doctor Dennison, chairman of the committee on topography, climatology and epidemics, presented his report, which also went to the printing committee.

The association then took a recess for dinner.

Upon the reassembling of the members of the society Dr. Bancroft gave the report of the legislative committee, which after some discussion was adopted. Dr. B. P. Anderson read an exhaustive and able paper on Pulmonary Consumption, which was referred to the publishing committee. A general discussion followed the reading of the paper in which Drs. Solly, Lemen, Reed and others participated. Dr. H. A. Lemen then presented a report on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys which was discussed and referred.

Dr. Reed presented the last paper of the afternoon entitled The Effects of High Altitude on Pneumonia Hemorrhage. This paper was a continuation of one presented by Dr. Reed at a previous meeting of the association. A great deal of interest was excited by this exceedingly interesting and able report and an animated discussion ensued.

Doctor Lathrop reported that the committee on admission recommended Drs. F. G. Blakey, J. W. Grahamy and J. L. Prentice for membership. These gentlemen were unanimously chosen members of the association.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President B. P. Anderson, Colorado Springs.

First Vice President H. A. Lemen, Denver.

Second Vice President M. Beshoar, Trinidad.

Third Vice President E. W. Cushing, Trinidad.

Permanent Secretary C. C. Lathrop, Denver.

Recording Secretary J. J. MacDonald, Denver.

Assistant Recording Secretary J. A. Hart, Colorado Springs.

Treasurer W. F. McClelland, Denver.

Committee on Admission Drs. W. R. Whitehead, Jesse Hawes, S. E. Solly, F. J. Bancroft, A. Stedman.

Trustees Drs. Steele, Horn, Williams, Lemen, Edmundson and Bancroft.

THE BANQUET.

Last night the banquet tendered by the El Paso County Medical Society to the State Medical Society was given at Kenney's restaurant. About thirty-five guests were present. There were a few guests outside of the medical profession, the most prominent of whom was His Honor Mayor Matt France. The party assembled in the spacious and elegant rooms of the El Paso Club, and at nine o'clock passed into its private dining room. About an hour and a half was spent in discussing the following unique menu:

"Sat pulchra, si sat bona."

All the dishes were admirably gotten up and served. We presume other caterers will grow green with envy at Mr. Kenney's ability in finding so many rare and unheard-of dishes. But some of the dishes were not so rare, as for example, the "Bulbi solani fuscati magistri urbis," which (if we may be pardoned for translating) literally means, "potatoes browned of the boss town," or in ordinary language, "Boston browned potatoes." The supper was a great success, and was most heartily enjoyed. It places Mr. Kenney among the first of caterers.

After the banquet there was indeed a feast of reason and flow of soul. To mention all the toasts and the names of those who responded would be like giving an index to all knowledge and name each person present two or three times. We will only name a few of the more prominent toasts. Dr. Stedman replied to a toast to the State Medical Society, Mayor France for our common council, which will entertain the society to-morrow, Dr. Solly for the El Paso Club, Dr. McClelland for the older members of the profession in the state, Dr. McClure for the Denver Medical Society, Dr. Reed for the El Paso Medical Society, Dr. Strickler for the profession generally, Dr. Beshoar for the Southern Association, Dr. Field for the mountain towns, and Dr. Hart, in a most felicitous speech, in which the kindness of Mrs. D. Russ Wood for the elegant pyramid of flowers which adorned the table was acknowledged for the ladies.

The speeches contained many very kind and generous words about Colorado Springs, particularly those of Drs. Stedman, Buckingham and McClure. The hospitality of our local society was also frequently and enthusiastically alluded to. It may not be improper for us to add that the El Paso Medical Society has shown great judgment, generosity and hearty good feeling in all the arrangements made for the reception of the state society and have done a good work in creating a pleasant feeling toward our beautiful city. At the early hour of twelve the speeches were ended and the party quietly broke up.

Leadville Lucubrations.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

LEADVILLE, May 17.

I have concluded to send you another "occasional," which may be my last, as I am off for the Gunnison. The weather during the past few weeks has been warm enough for comfort, and vegetation begins to put in an appearance.

The sun looked down in his most melting mood upon the snow of the upper mountains, and large portions of their most exposed surface are being revealed to the light. Although winter above lingers in the lap of spring, below it would seem that the vernal lapses in the hibernal here with remarkable facility, for the weather can occasionally be as fickle here as elsewhere.

To-day, for variety, the west wind fills the air with chrystalline flecks and feathers contrasting with the bland atmosphere. How hard we are to please! Yesterday we were complaining of the dust; now lies it there robed in the beautiful.

One whose blood has waltzed to the new atmospheric condition for a winter here does not feel as much inconvenience from thermal changes as do the people of Texas from the "northers," or those of Kansas or Iowa from the surging winds which seem hedged out here by the mountain ranges. One has to consult a thermometer to know if it is cold, and the tenderfoot is surprised to see the mountaineer going about in overalls and blouse. If Colorado is a sanitarium for pulmonary patients generally, the mountains are par eminence the proper resort for dyspeptics and those laboring under hepatic derangement. The mountains invite to compel exercise, the foe of indigestion; and then the reduced temperature promotes a freer circulation without the debility and languor experienced in hot localities. Who ever heard of an Esquimaux, who diets on whale, seal and candles, dying of dyspepsia?

As the snow disappears new strikes are expected almost daily in districts adjacent to those prospected over last season.

Ten Mile is twenty miles from here, long measure, with apparently an interval of a month in the season. The camps there appear from accounts to be passing through Leadville's experience of a fortnight ago mud and slush. A new town is laid out on the Eagle, and soon she will scream with the smelter and saw mill. The mines among the headwaters of the Gunnison are beginning to attract considerable attention, and many are going there this summer, and as soon as the Cottonwood Pass is clear of snow there will probably be considerable of a rush to that locality, rich in coal, agricultural and mineral resources.

Many have thought that when the railroad reaches here the freighter's occupation will be gone, but this is not likely, as roads are being opened to new regions further on, where the freight wagon will be the only means of supply. There is so much capital invested here that Leadville seems likely to hold its ground independently of any increase of mines in the immediate vicinity, and the probability is that these are but half developed. Although Leadville is regarded as a wicked place, the Sabbath is respected and the churches are filled to overflowing. There are some who are actuated by the gospel of necessity that knows no law, and some are actuated by the gospel according to St. Bob.

Denver Racing without Rarus

Owing to a lack of telegraphic communication we were unable to supplement our report of the first day's races at Denver, with an account of the trotting of the second day, we therefore give the following condensed report from the Denver Tribune:

There must have been at least a thousand people at Ford Park yesterday afternoon, who gathered there to see Rarus, and witness the races, in which other horses were announced to appear. Very slow time was made in most cases, but through the aid of skillful jockeying, the sport was rendered quite exciting. There was really no racing except in what was called the colt's race for five year olds. In this the animals seemed to be anxious to do their best work.

The race for five-year-olds, though put down for the last was called first, and all the horses entered responded to the summons to come forward, a verbal summons, as there was no bell. These entries were, Ollie entered by Pierce Smith, May Norwood entered by J. F. Johnstone, Telephone entered by G. H. Estabrook, and Annie Vanderbilt entered by H. Bimdey.

First Heat. The betting favored Ollie against the field two to one. The horses went off well together after some scoring. There was evident from the first, an effort to close up on the favorite, Ollie, but it was of but poor avail in the long run. The little mare kept her place to the fore with ease for a while, but the boys began to come up, and pretty soon the Norwood asserted herself by taking the lead and keeping it to the end, coming under the string first with Ollie a good second, Vanderbilt a fair third and Telephone a splendid last. The time was 3:04, and the heat consequently of very small interest.

The second heat was in some respects more interesting than the previous one, though the time made was the same. The horses got off nicely together. Ollie broke in the start, but lost nothing by so doing, and was soon in the lead a place which she kept well to the outcome. The horses strung out pretty early in the contest, Norwood taking the second place, Telephone third, and Vanderbilt in the rear. During the race there were two or three pretty bursts of speed between Norwood and Estabrook's mare. The outcome was very pretty, notwithstanding the slow time. Ollie came out first, Vanderbilt second, Norwood third, Telephone fourth. Time 3:04.

The third heat was of still greater interest. Mr. Splan took the reins of Norwood, and it was pretty certain that he meant to do something with him. Nevertheless, the pools were in favor of Ollie, $5 and $2 on the field. Ollie took the lead and held her place well nigh around. Telephone assumed the second place, but from that, through very bad breaking, he fell far to the rear and came out in that place. Splan did not assert himself thoroughly until he came to the homestretch, when he bucked down to business, rapidly gaining on Ollie, and then passing her right in front of the spectators stand, amidst great applause, and coming out first best in 3:02, Ollie second, Vanderbilt third, Telephone fourth.

Fourth Heat. Ollie's backers stood firm and in the face of her displacement in the previous heat there was no change in the pools, except that they were increased in bulk without having the proportion changed. Splan again drove Norwood. Ollie came out first, Norwood second, Vanderbilt third and Telephone fourth. Time 3:00½.

Fifth Heat. Ollie was a strong favorite. She won the heat with ease, almost walking under the string. Norwood, with Splan driving, pushed the little black filly just enough to put her to her metal, but with no other effort. Ollie came out first, Norwood second, Telephone third and the Vanderbilt mare last. Time 3:01. This gave Ollie the race.

After the second heat of the first race of the day's programme had been run, Colonel Lewis, the California horse, was brought out and gave an exhibition trot, making the mile in 2:29½.

The first heat of the free-for-all three in five run for a purse of $700, did not begin until twenty minutes past five. Of the five entries only three started Adelaide, Doty and Dick Taylor, Taylor being the only Colorado horse of the number. The gray horse, Taylor, led from the start. He broke badly at several different times, as did also Doty, who came in last. The heat was given to Taylor, Adelaide being second and Doty third. Time 2:31½. M. C. Wilbur drove Taylor, and did will with him, as he does on all occasions. Splan drove Adelaide.

Second Heat. In this Doty came in winner in 2:30, Taylor second and Adelaide third.

Third Heat. Adelaide took the lead and kept it till she reached the home stretch, when she broke badly, and gave place to Doty, who came in winner, with Adelaide second, and Dick Taylor third. Time 2:28.

Fourth Heat. Adelaide soon took the lead and held it with ease until the close, coming out first, Doty second and Dick Taylor third. Time 2:27.

It was now growing late, and the continuation of this race was postponed until ten o'clock this morning, when those having tickets on yesterday's race will be admitted without extra charge.

It must be here recorded that the greatest disappointment prevailed among those who attended the races that is the alleged races. The greatest indignation was caused by the non-appearance of Rarus in any of the contests of speed. But for the fact that the races were advertised as the Rarus races, and that it was stated that he would trot, very few people would have gone out, especially considering that these races came immediately upon the eve of our own Jockey Club meeting. There is no object in going to see the other animals, most of them but commonplace, and all races directed so as to suit those interested. Mr. Splan makes the excuse that his horse is in poor condition. That is not the fault of the Denver public. Why didn't Mr. Splan say so yesterday morning? He certainly could have done so if he had not concluded that he could do about as he might please with the people of Denver. The public will certainly remember the cheat that has been played upon them. In the meantime let the places where Mr. Splan is to appear in the future make a note of this thing. Add to this the unnecessary delays, the great amount of dust and no effort to keep it down, and the general lack of accommodations, and it cannot be wondered at that the crowd was disappointed.

Tom to be Killed on Sight.

James Anthony is the wagon master of the Atchison brothers, freighters. Trouble arose between Anthony and his employers, the former avowing that certain business matters had not been satisfactorily settled with him by the latter.

The outfit of the Atchisons has been in camp for the last few days, north of the Fair grounds, and in charge of the wagon master.

James Atchison went out to the camp to take possession of the teams, when he was met by Atchison outside of the camp, who presented a gun and commanded him to halt. A warm debate ensued and Mr. Atchison was informed that he could not take those teams just yet. Finally Anthony allowed Atchison to depart but swore that he would kill Tom Atchison on sight. The man whose life was threatened swore out a warrant against his enemy, and the paper was placed in the hands of Constable Clark for execution.

Just as Officer Clark was getting ready to visit the camp for the purpose of arresting Anthony he saw the man he was looking for coming down the street. The constable approached him, explained matters and Anthony gave himself up quietly and was lodged in jail to await trial. The prisoner says that his employers are endeavoring to avoid a just settlement of his claims. The case will be tried this morning at 9 o'clock before Judge Stewart.

The Presbyterian Church of Monument was made last week the recipient of a valuable present from the Central Presbyterian Church of Denver. The gift is an elegant silver communion set consisting of tankard, four goblets, two plates and baptismal bowl. The generosity of the Denver church will not soon be forgotten by the little band who are laboring here to build up the cause of the Master. Such expressions of sympathy and good will do much to encourage the workers in a new field.

Concerning Wool.

We have received Mellor & Co.'s price current of Colorado and territory wools, which is as follows: "Owing to the extremely low prices of yarns for which these wools are used, values remain about the same. Many manufacturers turned their attention more to pulled and tub wools, which were relatively cheaper, but now that the latter have nearly all gone into consumption, and recently at quite an advance, we look for new wools to move freely as received, and at full prices. The improvement in many branches of business, and the recent activity in domestic wools, lead us to believe that prices have touched bottom, and that our quotations are conservative, so that shipments based on same will probably show a fair margin of profit. We quote to-day

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of our people are at present worrying themselves almost to death over this vexed question, even to the extent of neglecting their business, their homes and their duty to their families, there are still thousands upon thousands of smart, hard working, intelligent men pouring into the great Arkansas Valley, the Garden of the West, where the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad offers them their choice of 2,500,000 acres of the finest farming lands in the world at almost their own prices. If you do not believe it, write to the undersigned, who will tell you where you can get a cheap land exploring ticket, and how, at a moderate expense, you can see for yourself and be convinced.
